SOME LAUGHING GAS.

MANUFACTURED FROM CONDENSED BRAINS.

For the Delectation of Our Readers—A Temperance Advertisement that Worked Both Ways—Hypnotism Graphically Described—Funny Paragraphs.

A Graphic Demonstration. Hypnotist (to subject).—Now, my friend, you are the celebrated pugilist, John L. Sullivan—get up and show how you box.

Subject (to himself).—In the hull three weeks I've been travelling with that fellow, he's only paid me two dollars; an' I've got to get square with him, somehow!

What He Could Do.

He looked up and down the street furtively two or three times, took in the sign over the door once or twice and darted in as if afraid of being caught at it.

"This is an employment agency, isn't it?" he inquired of the man in charge.

"Yes," snapped the person.

"Get work for people, don't you?"

"Yes."

"Any kind of work?"

"Yes."

"All kinds?"

"Yes."

"Got something for me to do?"

"Yes."

"In a restaurant?"

"Yes—what in thunder can you do in a restaurant?" exclaimed the boss, catching himself.

"Eat."

"Then he got the bounce."

That Theater Poster—Ordinance.

"Wasn't it horrid of the Aldermen to liken us to ballet girls?" asked one society woman of a member of the Fine Cut Club.

"Yes," responded he, "and absurd into the bargain. Your methods and those of the ballet girls are diametrically opposed."

"What do you mean?"

"Well, you know, you take off from above and they from below—no, I never drink tea now, thank you."

Why He Was Sad.

Solicitor's Spouse. "What makes you look so worried lately? You're not like yourself."

Great Lawyer. "Well, I'm having considerable trouble down town."

Spouse. "Now you must tell me all about it."

Lawyer. "Well, you see I want to keep the office open till 3, and the office boy wants to close it at 4, and we can't seem to arrange matters."

Crumblets.

There is a wide difference between a man and sitting down on him.

"I catch on," as the grip said.

Yuletide—Married at Christmas.

Skipping the rope—A murderer escaping from jail.

She Didn't Want Him.

"Where are you going my pretty maid?"

"I'm going to church, kind sir," she said.

"May I go with you, O sweetest maid?"

"I've hymns enough in my book," she said.

Things Are Coming Tommy's Way.

A Proof.

Wickwire. "I tell you, Yabby, my boy, there is nothing like a baby to brighten up a man's home."

Yabby. "Yes, I have noticed that the gas seems to be at full height in your house at almost any hour of the night."

PHYSICAL CULTURE.

The Proper Way to Walk, to Breathe and to Climb Stairs.

Prof. Edwin Cheekley lately lectured before an audience in the library of the Hamilton club on physical training for health as against athletes in general. He said in part:

It is generally thought that in order to attain any great degree of physical development it is necessary to go through a course of training. I maintain that is not true unqualifiedly. If it were athletes would nearly all be models of physical development, which is far from being the case. Generally, persons do not stand with their spines straight, which I maintain is the way they ought to be. The curve of the neck also is, as a rule, too great. Such faults should be gotten rid of before anything like work is attempted, that is work in the way of physical development. One should walk from the hips. The hip joint should be used not only in standing, but in walking. The limb then swings backward and forward like a pendulum. If this is practiced, walking is no labor, as the weight is not transferred from one leg to the other, but all that is necessary is to raise yourself on the toe and the weight of the body swings itself forward easily and naturally. I maintain that the muscles should be soft instead of hard and tense. If I want to develop a muscle it is not necessary for me to sit down and pull on something for an hour every day which will bring that muscle into play. No outside instrument is necessary for such a purpose. The abdominal muscles are not necessary to the inflation of the lungs. I will give you an example of inflation of my lungs without using the abdominal muscles. It is generally supposed that when the muscles are soft there is little strength in them. Now if I, a little man with soft muscles, should break this chain, it would go to show to the contrary. Here the speaker stretched both arms back of his neck with his hands grasping a chain and, exerting himself, broke the stout links, exhibiting his magnificent muscular development at the same time. He then told how the muscles of the abdomen may be developed. Talking an hour a day, if one breathes properly while doing it, will give enough abdominal development. The power of muscles when exercised and controlled intelligently was given a practical demonstration by the speaker, who lay flat on his back and raised several men on his hands. He called attention to common faults in the methods of standing and sitting. The body should be held erect in sitting down, and only one joint, that of the knee, used. It would be a good thing, the lecturer declared, if the old-fashioned bow from the hip were to be revived, as that would encourage the use of the hip as a joint. The proper way to go up stairs was illustrated. Instead of putting one foot up and then pushing the body with the other, one should lean over and get the second foot on the same step with the first, and then push with two feet instead of one to raise the weight of the body.—Brooklyn Eagle.

WIT AND HUMOR.

WEEKLY CRIST OF FUNNY SAYINGS AND DOINGS.

Mrs. Peterby's Birthday Surprise—Something Striking and Lively in the Musical Line—A Breeze at Palling Grove—Floating Chestnuts.

Mr. and Mrs. Peterby have been married several years. They live very peacefully, as is usual with married folks, but occasionally have a falling out. A few days ago she put on her things and said she was going to her mother. When Mr. Peterby asked the reason she said:

"That was not a nice way to treat me. To-day was my birthday, and you did not surprise me with a present."

Mr. Peterby said:

"I did not give you any thing on purpose, so that you might enjoy a surprise. I knew you wanted to be surprised, so I determined to surprise you at the risk of your getting angry."

Every year since we have known each other you have given me a present on my birthday, and I counted on you doing it this time."

"But, my dear, where would there have been any surprise if I had made you a present? I didn't give you any thing on purpose, so that you might enjoy a surprise. I knew you wanted to be surprised, so I determined to surprise you at the risk of your getting angry."

Mr. Peterby said:

"I did not give you any thing on purpose, so that you might enjoy a surprise. I knew you wanted to be surprised, so I determined to surprise you at the risk of your getting angry."

Pears' Soap

The skin ought to be clear; there is nothing strange in a beautiful face.

If we wash with proper soap, the skin will be open and clear, unless the health is bad. A good skin is better than a doctor.

The soap to use is Pears'; no alkali in it. It is perhaps the only soap in the world with no alkali in it.

All sorts of stores sell it, especially druggists; all sorts of people use it.
